BOX

SHARING
THE BEST IN NEW MUSIC

Honey Box Live is a live music show featuring original performances from emerging artists, recorded in front of a live audience and broadcast across the UK. Each episode is filmed in a custom-built pop-up studio, set up either at our home base King Street Studios or inside independent gig venues around the country. The result is a unique blend of live gig atmosphere and professional broadcast quality, capturing artists at their best in front of real crowds.

We spotlight the best in grassroots talent, giving artists a platform to grow their audience, build their networks, and access high-quality content to support their careers. Alongside the show, we run a range of artist development opportunities through community-led projects including The Hive, Honey Comb, and our newest strand, Amplifying Grassroots Talent.

Our mission is to help audiences discover brilliant new music while giving artists the tools, connections, and experience they need to succeed.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

With the support of PH Production Services, we can transform any venue into a high quality broadcast studio, ensuring top-notch live streams.

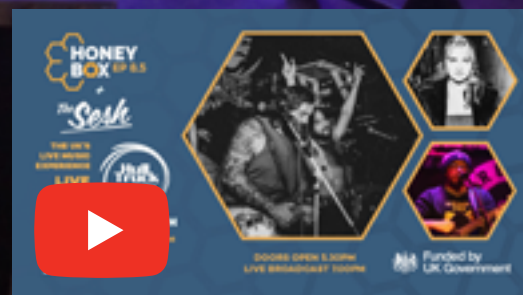

We collaborate seamlessly with venues that have their own tech support and production requirements, adapting to each unique setting.

We work with local partners to carefully curate the bands that perform, ensuring a diverse and exciting lineup, every time.

We create comprehensive promotional packages for featured artists, including high quality recordings of each individual track.

AMPLIFYING GRASSROOTS TALENT

Amplifying Grassroots Talent is a regional development and broadcast project supporting emerging musicians through live performances, livestreamed events, and targeted industry skills development. It is funded by Arts Council England's Supporting Grassroots Music Programme, a time-limited funding priority within the National Lottery Project Grants scheme.

The project brings together venue partners, music professionals, and communities across four Midlands cities to platform underrepresented talent and provide meaningful career development opportunities for performers and early-career creatives.

Emerging musicians in Newcastle-under-Lyme, Derby, Leicester and Wolverhampton will have the opportunity to perform on the live broadcast for Series 9. Each location will also host a Development Day, building on the success of the Honey Box Hive and Comb projects. These events will offer practical training and development workshops, industry panel discussions, and guest speakers from across the music and creative sectors, all designed to support the next generation of grassroots talent.

Participants can expect shadowing and volunteering opportunities in camera, audio, stage management, and production on the day of the broadcast gigs too.

Peter Knott, Midlands Area Director at Arts Council England, said: "We're pleased to have funded King Street Studios with almost £30,000 of National Lottery funding to launch the ninth edition of their Honey Box Live scheme. Supporting Grassroots Music is a key priority for Arts Council England, and we're looking forward to seeing what talent comes out of these new opportunities across the Midlands and beyond."

COMMUNITY, CONNECTION AND CONVERSATION

HoneyComb is where artists come together, share stories, spark ideas, and build real relationships, on and off the stage. A series of regular events specifically for musicians and the wider creative community that feature up close and personal performances and interviews with local artists in intimate settings, conversations about the local scene and industry experiences and a chance to network, collaborate and socialise with fellow performers on the local circuit.

"I think the setup was perfect for being able to switch between performing and chatting, with a drinkie break."
